

Use Google Books to Get Free Copies of Pages of Family History Library Books

November 4, 2013 By Nathan W. Murphy

Earlier this year, FamilySearch announced a free lookup service for genealogy books and microfilm available at the renowned Family History Library in Salt Lake City. The response was overwhelming, 1000s of people contacted us to take advantage of this free service. Another way to utilize this service is to start with limited preview Google Books and get us to scan the entire page and email it to you for free. Let's walk through the process.

First, start on Google Books: <http://books.google.com/>
Search for the name of an ancestor:

Google has scanned millions of books that are both (1) out of copyright and (2) still under copyright. If you happen to find a book that is out of copyright, i.e. published before 1923, you'll usually be able to read the entire book for free online and you do not need to use FamilySearch's free lookup service. For books still under copyright, i.e. published since 1923, Google Books often provides a "snippet view" (see below).

This Heard family experienced the Revolutionary War in Cumberland Co., NC. 59- Stephen served in a regiment of the NC militia in Wilmington District, and furnished supplies to the local militia and Continental troops. After the War was won, 59- Stephen and his family decided to move to Georgia, where his father, 17- Charles, and uncle, 16- John, had lived since before the Revolution. 59- Stephen received a grant of 150 acres on Clark's Creek of Long Creek in Wilkes Co., GA in August 1784 as Stephen Heard, Jr. He was Jr. to his cousin 53- Stephen Heard of Wilkes Co., son of 16- John Heard. Isabella probably married William Doss of the Clark's Creek community in Wilkes Co., GA
